

Where do you see yourself in five years time? Top 3 answers

1. I love this job and I would be happy to work as a teacher in five years time, and also in ten years time. Hopefully I will become a great teacher over the years, someone the students will remember in good means, like someone who had a positive impact on their life and career. I have such teachers in my mind, teachers who helped me become who I am today, and who were my inspiration when I was deciding about my professional career, and enrolled for teaching. Hopefully I can become such a teacher myself in five years time.
2. Five years? That's quite a long time horizon to be honest, considering what we are witnessing in the world. You have the pandemic, the climate change, you have refugees leaving poor countries in millions. Can we really predict what will happen in five years? Especially if we bear in mind that schools were closed for a long time, teaching moved online, and many people lost their jobs. I prefer to live in a present moment, and focus at the task at hand. I will try to be the best teacher I can be, and give my 100% every day at work. If I manage to do it, I am sure I won't end up disappointed in five years time.
3. My only wish is to become a much better teacher than I currently am, in five years time horizon. I know a lot about the continuous education you support at this institution, that you treat teachers as your most important assets. It is one of the reasons why I decided to apply with you, instead of some other school in the district. I believe I can realize all my ambitions at your school, and hope to be teaching here in five years time—doing a better job with the students than I'd ever done.
